COULD HERB LENNOX HAVE DONE BETTER?

A masterly performance as chairman of a public dinner was handed out by Newmarket's Reeve Dr. L. W. Dales at the King George hotel on Wednesday evening.

The dinner was in honor of the Central Ontario Highway Association and the 50 guests were from as far east as Peterboro. Dr. Dales undertook to introduce the company and proceeded to call each guest by name and to tell something about each. Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd welcomed the guests.

Among those attending the dinner were Alderman James Dutton, Peterborough; Morgan Baker, M. L. A.; W. M. Bowes, Port Perry; Alderman Glover, Peterborough, ex-president of the O.H.A. and former owner of the Peterboro Examiner; Mr. Outram, Peterborough city clerk; W. W. Osborne, Harry Corner, reeve of Georgina; Charles Malloy, deputy-reeve, Aurora; Stanley Osborne, reeve, East Gwillimbury.

In Search Of Water, Five Citizens Try Many Varieties

Saturday Afternoon Given Over To Viewing
Water Sources

By ANDREW HEBB

In company with George Williams, geographer royal and leader of the expedition, Councilor Arthur D. Evans, ex-Councilor Harvey McCordick and A. C. West, editor of the Express-Herald, the writer spent a pleasant Saturday afternoon looking for water.

Mr. McCordick made use of an apple-ack as a divining-rod, but without making a strike. Mr. Williams had previously taken W. B. Redfern, town engineer, over the ground and led us to water and made us drink. We started out Gorham St., turning down the third and then out the Bogartown side-road. Here we saw Mr. Redfern's million gallons of water a day tickling back and forth under the run at four different points within a short distance. You might think that makes four million gallons, but you wouldn't be right.

This water flowed strong and clear, but we didn't taste it, continuing on to its sources. We went down the fourth to the Cosford road, and out to the fifth. About 20 rods this side of the fifth we again saw our stream which still looked like a million gallons to us. Down the fifth 30 rods we crossed it again.

We went on down the fifth and out the Aurora side-road to a point half way between the sixth and seventh, where we found a swamp which Mr. Williams declared to be the source of the Bogartown stream. We tasted the water, which was running clear, but not in any great volume, and pronounced it good. We wanted to see how this stream became built up, during the next couple of miles, into a million gallons and on our way back we went north on the sixth into a desolate sand area. Here was a good illustration of what is happening in western Canada. We saw former farms with five or six feet of soil blown off them into the roadway. This land was never meant to be filled. The sand was swirling in every direction. We couldn't help thinking how much worse it must be on the open prairies, once the winds that blow gain possession of the top soil.

We made our way through the sand down into the valley and found our stream already augmented into a pretty strong stream. We also visited the nearby Linton place, west of the sixth, and saw springs sending another stream "to join the brimming river."

Then we made our way north to see Jess Lundy's pond at Cedar Valley. According to Mr. Redfern, there is another million gallons of water a day here. It looked like a million gallons to us. Mr. Lundy has an interesting pump arrangement below his mill dam, harnessing the water-power to send water to his house, as needed.

We tasted this water too and liked it. We traced this stream to the point where it crosses Huron St., this side of the fifth, entering Blanchard's farm. Then we went north of town to see the spring on Ben Howard's farm. This is down over the hills to the west of Mr.

Newmarket Buglers Take Part In Toronto Cenotaph Service

Six members of the R.S.A. bugle band were honored on Sunday, when they were invited to take part in a special memorial service held for C.N.I. veterans at the cenotaph in Toronto. The service was held at 2:30 on Sunday afternoon.

Official Visits Local Dairies

"Mr. Tyler, a representative sent out by the provincial department of health, was in town this week inspecting the dairies," Dr. J. H. Wesley, M.O.H., stated.

"His report goes to the department whose recommendations are forwarded to the Milk Control Board to deal with. This board is the all-powerful arm of the law."

NAME OFFICERS AT CONVENTION

Marion Burkholder, Queensville, is head of Toronto Centre North Y.P.U.

Toronto Centre North Presbyterian Y.P.U. convention was held in Schomberg on Wed. Oct. 27 with about 100 present.

Winners of the photography contest were announced by Miss Florence Cole, Christian Culture convener as follows: Miss Margaret Fockler, Keswick, 1st, landscape; Murray Huntley, Queensville, 1st, water scenes; Miss Ruth De La Haye, Aurora, 1st, animal life; Vera Clarke, 1st, camp life.

The election of officers for the new presbytery executive was held and Dr. E. J. Thompson of Aurora conducted the installation service for the new executive.

The new officers are: Miss Marion Burkholder, Queensville, president; Miss Vera Hunter, Laskay, vice president; Ila Haines, Sharon, secretary; Mabel Carr, Wesley, as treasurer; Audrey Lloyd, Temperanceville, treasurer; Jack Winch, Bethel, Christian fellowship; Evelyn Wright, Queensville, ex-officio; Christian fellowship; Muriel Thorpe, King, Christian missions; Ruth De La Haye, Aurora, assistant; Harry Rumble, Temperanceville, Christian citizenship; Lela Patton, King, assistant; Boyd Mowat, Victoria, Christian culture; Murray Huntley, Queensville, assistant; Merle Davitt, Glenville, recreation; Robert Hart, Schomberg, assistant; Vera Clarke, Aurora, publications; Allen Richardson, Aurora, assistant; Vera Hunter, Laskay, leadership training; Murray Huntley, Queensville, music; Margaret Fockler, Keswick, girls' work; Ken Davis, King, boys' work.

FIRSTS ENTERTAIN SECOND COMPANY

First Newmarket company of Girl Guides held their regular meeting last night at the Bugle Band hall, with the Newmarket company and members of the Local Association as guests.

The Commissioner, Mrs. W. McCaffrey, gave a short talk and told a guide story, which was very interesting. The balance of the evening was spent playing games. The meeting closed with the singing of "Taps."

Sunday, Nov. 14, 1st Newmarket company will attend Trinity United church. Members of the L. A. are invited to attend with the company. Please meet in the senior Sunday-school room at 10:45 a.m. Guides must have written permission to attend.

The card table and chairs being drawn for are now on display in the window of Roadhouse and Rose.

Palace Sold To City Men

The Palace theatre has been purchased by Premier Operating Corporation, 21 Dundas Square, Toronto. Extensive renovations are to be made at an early date.

Roy Rhinehart continues in charge of the box office.

ENTERTAIN LIONS
Misses Davis and Calhoun, Aurora, dancers, accompanied by "Bus" Heisey, Aurora, on the accordion, provided entertainment at the Lions Club on Monday evening.

M.L.A. NOT WED
The Era has been asked to contradict a rumor that Morgan Baker, M.L.A., has been married recently.

HUNTERS RETURN

L. B. Rose and W. J. Patterson, who have been on a hunting expedition in Haliburton since last week, are expected home to-night or early Friday.

Two minutes silence at 11 a.m. today marked the signing of the armistice 19 years ago. Work stopped and all citizens paused to recall the sacrifices and hopes of the great war.

Rev. A. J. Patstone conducted a memorial service at St. Paul's chapel at 9:30 a.m. today. Newmarket Veterans will attend a short service at the peace memorial this evening. They will leave the post-office at 7:45 p.m. Arthur D. Evans will be in charge of the service. A wreath will be placed on the memorial. Afterward the veterans will be the guests of Tuscan lodge A. F. & A. M.

This Family Lives On Many Streets, Your Help Needed

Lions Club Christmas Stocking Fund Needs Your Contribution

The father is working just now, but he has not had regular work and it takes every cent he earns to provide food and rent, and pencils and paper for the children at school.

The food and home his wages provide are not quite the standard that the average citizen enjoys. Nor is there enough left to buy all the winter clothes that family needs.

The mother is not very well. She has no serious illness, she is just showing the signs of overwork, worry, under-nourishment.

There is a new worry not far ahead. How is she to provide a Christmas for her family? It will break her heart if her children don't hear from Santa Claus, but what else can happen?

This family lives on many different Newmarket streets.

You can help this family, with the co-operation of the Lions club. Send your contribution to this newspaper; if E. Lambert, Bank of Toronto; P. J. Tod, Bank of Montreal; or to any member of the Lions club, addressed at Lions Christmas Stocking Fund.

Shoots Rabbit In Front Of Other Chap's Dogs In King

Loses Rabbit And Has Thumb Broken In
Hunters' Quarrel

Is it good sportsmanship to shoot a rabbit in front of somebody else's dogs? If you do, should you turn the rabbit over to the owner of the dogs in return for a cartridge? If you don't take the latter course, should the owner of the dogs take the rabbit from you? Aside from these questions of sportsmanship, who owns the rabbit, the man who shoots it or the man whose dogs start it up and get it to first after the other fellow has killed it?

These questions came before Magistrate I. J. C. Bull in police court here on Tuesday afternoon. The questions weren't all settled, but Richard Findlay, East York, the owner of the dogs, was fined $2 and costs for assault as the result of injuring the second joint in another hunter's thumb as he pulled the disputed rabbit out of his hand. The incident occurred in King township.

Gus and Thomas Andrews, Toronto, brothers, were the complainants.

"I said you can't shoot a rabbit in front of our dogs," said Findlay. "It's poor sportsmanship. The rabbit belongs to us. We'll give you a shell, I said. He took a shell from my friend and I pulled the rabbit from him."

"We had been hunting for half an hour and hadn't started anything," said J. A. Sherman. "Mr. Findlay jumped on a brush-pile, and a cotton-tail ran out. We put the dogs on the scent. The dogs lost the scent for a time, and then they started the rabbit out of a brush-pile. I heard a shot and saw the complainant run down and take the rabbit from our dogs."

"Part of the shell that didn't hit the rabbit nearly hit me."

"Why didn't you shoot the rabbit?" asked N. L. Mathews, K. C., for the crown.

"I was 75 yards away."

"You were close enough nearly to get hit by the shot."

"They go quite a distance. I didn't say they would have hurt me if they had hit me," replied Sherman.

"It's not very sportsmanlike, I told him," said Sherman.

"Why?"

"I have hunted a good many years. I don't say I have never

On Sunday morning the veterans, accompanied by the Citizens' Band and the R.S.A. Bugle Band attended church service at the Friends church, where Rev. Burton Hill was in charge. Jack Arlitt played the Last Post and Reveille.

Prior to the service the veterans attended a service at the peace memorial, where Mrs. Laker, a war widow, laid a wreath presented by the provincial government. The flag was lowered and then the bugle band played the Reveille as it was raised again.

shot a rabbit before another man's dogs, but I have always offered to give it to him."

"There is the question as to who owned the rabbit," said Mr. Mathews. "Aside from that, there is no doubt but that Findlay is technically guilty of an assault."

He was found guilty and fined $2 and costs, or five days.

Amateurs Rush To Newmarket

With a large entry of excellent turns and the advance sale of tickets quite large, the Newmarket Veterans are very pleased with the outlook for their amateur show tomorrow night.

The entries are coming in from all over the county and many of these will be making their initial appearance here. The list includes many class performers, and the turns are so varied that a high-class show is positively guaranteed.

The committee has selected three competent judges, who will have a large task but no doubt they will depend on the audience to help in their selection.

Amateur shows are still very popular with both radio and concert audiences. The amateurs seldom fail to put on a good show.

Newmarket Veterans Association has a record which is unexcelled for relief and charitable work. It is hoped that citizens will make this show an outstanding success.

I. O. O. F. LODGES INSTALL HEADS

The officers of Thora Rebekah Lodge No. 162 and Pyramid Lodge No. 156 were installed in a joint ceremony, in the R.S.A. hall, Newmarket, on Tuesday evening. D.D.P. Sister Vera Ashton and D.D.G.M. Bro. Norman Heise and suites officiating in a most capable manner. Following were the officers installed: Thora Rebekah Lodge No. 162: J.P.N.G. Sister C. Brown; Noble Grand, E. Boyd; Vice-Grand, J. Geddis; secretary, M. Saxon; treasurer, J. Willis; warden, I. Saxon; conductor, B. Churchill; inside guard, K. Lindenbaum; outside guard, A. Perrin; chaplain, A. Lushby; R.S.N.G. V. Ashton; L.S.N.G. I. Lundy; R.S.V.G. L. Price, L.S.V.G. M. Hammill; musician, G. Booth.

Pyramid Lodge No. 156: noble grand, E. Perrin; vice-grand, G. Wright; recording secretary, L. Reilly; financial secretary, W. Brown; treasurer, J. McFavish; warden, F. Penrose; conductor, M. After the installing ceremonies, short addresses were given by D.D.P. Sister V. Ashton and D.D.G.M. Bro. Norman Heise; P.D. deputies, Sisters Shoebridge, McKeown, Rodway, and Heise; P.G. Pat. Bro. Shoebridge of Toronto, P.G. Pat. M. Andrews and Bro. Norman Williams, who called the meeting to a moment's silence in memory of the Oddfellows who gave their all, also the members who served the lodge so faithfully and have passed on to the "Great grand lodge", never to return.

"Take up our quarrel with the foe: To you from failing hands we throw the torch; be yours to hold it high. If ye break faith with us who die we shall not sleep, though poppies grow in Flanders fields."

On behalf of Thora Lodge, J.P.N.G. Sister C. Brown presented D.D.P. Vera Ashton with a lovely bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Visitors from other lodges came from Toronto, Markham, Stouffville, Mount Albert, Sutton and Aurora.

After partaking of a dainty lunch which was enjoyed by some 115 or 120, the tables and chairs were pushed back and they tuned the light fantastic to the triple of Eddie Gibson orchestra. In the wee sma' hours the crowd dispersed, having spent a most enjoyable evening.

A week past some of the most enthusiastic have been riding daily over the corner, which is from corner Timothy St. and Prospect Ave., south to Wellington St., Aurora, and return by Yonge and Eagle St., finishing at Water St. Four o'clock Tuesday next is the hour fixed for starting and the event is likely to prove of much interest as being a team race the result might hinge upon some of the slow riders or green men who never entered in a race before. Several of the boys have recently made the run in 50 minutes and ex-Capt. Blinn, on Tuesday last, spun around in 48, which record has probably been lowered ere this."

Aurora, Newmarket Agree To Compromise

Peterborough Men Attend Meeting Here Of Highway Association

Representatives of a great many municipalities between Yonge St. and Peterborough attended a meeting of the Central Ontario Highway Association in the town hall last evening.

Prior to the meeting the town council tendered a dinner to the visiting members of the association at the King George hotel.

Only the section of the highway between Yonge St. and Port Perry remains to be taken over by the provincial government, it was stated at the public meeting.

"It will serve 200,000 people," said Alderman James Dutton, Peterborough, president of the association.

"We are thoroughly behind the project," he said. "We can achieve this highway only by united effort. We are proud of our highways, and we are anxious to see highways built that will help the people."

Alderman Dutton paid tribute to W. M. Bowes, Port Perry, organizer for the highway association.

"His courage, ability and perseverance have been great contributory factors in achieving the results to date," Mr. Dutton said.

"Looking at the map is what convinced me to do what I have for this highway," said Mr. Bowes.

"Central Ontario has been slighted in the matter of highway appropriation in the last 20 years," said Mr. Bowes. "Western Ontario has roads east and west and north and south every five or ten miles. They have been paid for out of the provincial treasury. Western Ontario has had six times as much money per capita spent on highways as has central Ontario. If there is not going to be fairness in the distribution of provincial motor and gasoline taxes, it is time that the attention of the provincial government should be drawn to it most emphatically."

"Our provincial government has a very large revenue, and our local councils have the right to make recommendations to the central government."

"Every council from Ottawa to Orangeville has expressed its approval of this project. At the expense of building 100 miles you obtain a through highway from Ottawa to Lake Huron."

"It will not cost over $3,000,000 and probably will cost less than $2,500,000. The highways department says we can estimate on $25,000 a mile."

"Ontario is carrying out a plan to build the most wonderful highway system in the world. Plans are being made for dual highways between Niagara and Windsor, Toronto and Sarnia, Montreal and Toronto."

"We are advocating this highway as one of the cheapest and most logical additions to the highway system of the province."

"We should build our highways in such a position that they will bring new revenue, new business, new construction. This highway will pay for itself in less than ten years."

"It is supposed to be treading on dangerous ground to discuss whether this road shall go through Newmarket or Aurora. There is no reason for disagreement. At the present time there is a county road a few miles east of Aurora. That is the road Aurora would prefer."

"Newmarket has suggested the town line between East Gwillimbury and Whitby. The proposal is that both these roads should be carried through to the York County boundary as county highways, and that, whichever of these routes the highways department prefers, the other should be completed as a hard-surface county highway.

"If the two towns join in supporting that proposal, I am sure that there will be no difficulty in getting the highway carried through from Yonge St. to Port Perry."

"We in Aurora are anxious always, as you in Newmarket are anxious, for the best for our town," said Mayor Dr. C. H. Boulding of Aurora.

"That is a fine suggestion as a solution for the present," he said. "We will have to convince the county authorities of the desirability of taking over these two roads. If others will play square, we are ready to abide by that proposal. Two roads or none will be our slogan. We will each have a paved highway. I speak without authority of the Aurora council, but I know that they are fair people, and I know that the people of Newmarket are fair."

Reeve Dr. L. W. Dales of Newmarket pledged his support to the proposed compromise.

"To digress slightly, a plan of centralization of government in Toronto is gradually being carried out," said Dr. Dales. "Matters are being taken away from us as municipal councils which we ought to be looking after."

"The people of Peterborough are just as much behind this highway as before our particular section was taken over by the provincial government on Oct. 6, said E. J. Overn, president of the Peterborough chamber of commerce.

Reeve J. A. Knowles, Aurora, county commissioner, said that the county wanted to do nothing which would help Newmarket and Aurora to get these two roads.

"I am sure that these two roads will be taken over by the county at our next meeting," said Mr. Knowles.

"I see a very contentious point coming before the county council in the recommendation of two in the recommendation of two highways," said J. O. Little, ex-warden. "The mayor of Aurora and the reeve of Newmarket have said that they are 100 per cent behind two highways or none. I say that Aurora and Newmarket are behind at least one highway. This community is behind one highway wherever it goes."

WAR AND PEACE

Remembrance day comes once again. What do we remember? Those who saw local veterans march to church last Sunday morning felt pride in these men who were so splendid 20 years ago. These annual occasions recall different memories in each of us, according to our own losses and experiences during those dreadful, glorious war years. They were dreadful in fact, but were made glorious by idealism and sacrifice. Each year, crowded with events, Canadian and international, changes our thoughts on the problem of war and peace. Even those who are most pronounced in their opinions are shaken by events in Ethiopia, Spain and the Orient and by the shape of things in other European countries. The writer clings to at least two somewhat conflicting opinions: first, that pacifists take their cue from the most authoritative and practical source of wisdom our civilization knows; and second, we must strengthen the League of Nations to maintain world peace, through international police action if necessary.

ARE BALLOTS NUMBERED?

There is only one thing wrong with a recent editorial in the Alliston Herald, says the Midland Free Press. Since the ballots are numbered serially, though there is no number on the stub, says the Herald, all that is necessary to do to discover how a man voted is to check the list kept by the poll clerk of the voters as they come in. There is only one thing wrong with the Herald editorial, and that is that the ballots are not numbered, comments the Free Press. Now that does seem to settle that question. The stub is numbered, and the counterfoil is numbered, but the counterfoil is torn off before the ballot is dropped into that little black box, explains the Midland newspaper.

STIR UNTIL SOFT

This little pun occurs in the Fergus News-Record: "One of our exchanges claims that the country around Fergus was all stirred up during the international plowing match."

NEW RADIO BROADCASTER

CRCT, now located at Bowmanville, is soon to be replaced by CBL at Hornby, near Georgetown. The new station will use 50,000 watts, more power than is used by any Canadian broadcasting station today, and will have a tower 647 feet high, that is, 200 feet higher than the Bank of Commerce building, Toronto. The 20th century's two inventions, the radio and the flying-machine, are likely to get tangled up in fogs and snow-storms, as towers like this and planes both increase in numbers. Lights, of course, will be sufficient warning to the night flier, unhampered by fog or snow.

NEW SCHOOL CURRICULUM

Addressing Durham and Northumberland public school teachers two weeks ago, one of the two Toronto creators of the new public school curriculum urged teachers to forget about examinations. Stanley Watson, principal of Keele St. public school, Toronto, said that one of the chief advantages of the new curriculum is that it permits the teacher to choose topics which he or she feels will be of most value to the pupils. These topics, we would suggest, will be ones in which the teacher is enthusiastically interested or about which the pupils are enthused. There needs to be enthusiasm.

Books Needed

Mr. Watson said that the pupils must do 90 per cent of the work and the teacher one per cent. The idea is that education is what you do for yourself. Mr. Watson asked that school boards provide a wealth of reading material for the children. Our idea of a school is a building with lots of reading-rooms and book shelves, or for a one or two-roomed school, the class-room or rooms lined with book shelves. There is education for children in discovering books for themselves.

Making Decisions

Mr. Watson had a lot of interesting suggestions, including one that an entire class should not be given the same selection as memory work. Presumably he would say to children: "Pick out some poem you like, not too short, from the book shelves, and memorize it." It is important for the pupils to be making choices and decisions for themselves. Another suggestion he made was that in the course of preparation for a story festival, to be attended by parents and friends, the pupils would read half a dozen books to find something that they liked. We suppose that at the festival each pupil gives a resume of some story he likes. Incidentally, he said, the pupils would improve their handwriting in preparing to send out attractive hand-written invitations to the festival.

Health Examination

At the same convention the president of the teachers' organization said that Durham county had been progressive in introducing the study of music in the schools and expressed the hope that Durham would be the first county to establish a system of regular medical examination in both rural and urban schools. East Gwillimbury, Newmarket and Aurora have also been progressive in introducing the study of music. We trust that York county will be among the pioneers in engaging school nurses and eventually in arranging periodic medical examinations, but we think the school nurses should come first.

HOUSEWIVES' UNION

The proposed housewives' union in the neighboring city of Toronto, to keep down the price of milk and bread and to protect the household budget, is interesting. It is not organized by the C.I.O. or by "foreign agitators," and so it is not likely to be as thorough or as successful as it might otherwise be. The leader in this movement proposes to boycott milk and bread companies to force the prices back down to their former levels. It is not fair to jump to the conclusion that these companies are making unreasonable profits. The price of bread and milk may be unreasonably high and at the same time the companies might be operating on quite moderate margins of profit.

Too Many Early Risers

How could this be? There may be far too many companies in the milk and bread business. The cost of distribution may be needlessly high through far too much duplication. In the city dozens of different milk and bread wagons traverse each street, and the residents along those streets are paying for the oats and supporting the drivers, just as much as though they were paying local improvement taxes. The housewives may be able to force the prices down and send some of the extra companies out of business, or they may even bring about, as they have already suggested, municipal distribution. Of course, it may be that the companies are making exorbitant profits and that the prices will go down without anyone going out of business. That would mean that it would be possible to get the milk price still lower by going further and eliminating some of the wasteful competition.

Sympathy With Farmer

One of the interesting points in the city discussion is that no one seems to begrudge anything extra to the farmer. If it could be shown that the price increase was going to the farmers, the housewives' union would not be discussed. Apparently there is the greatest sympathy with the farmer. City people seem to be conscious of the difficult struggle the man on the land is having today, and also aware that the city's own prosperity is tied up with farm prosperity. In any event it is easy to understand how women who are carrying their families on $15 to $25 a week will fight to save 25 cents which previously gave the children an occasional movie. And at this point the bread and milk dealers may say: But perhaps it is the movie prices that are too high. Probably they are, but movies are an imported product beyond the control of the housewives of Toronto. Milk and bread are Ontario products, which everybody must buy for health's sake, and you can't blame the housewives for seeing what they can do to bring these prices down.

HOW TO INFLUENCE EDITORS

"How do you write something so that it will be published in a newspaper just as it was written?" was a question put to us the other day. We would like to turn this question over to Dale Carnegie, author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People," for reply, but we did attempt an answer, which may be of interest to some of our readers. In the first place, every newspaper has its own "style," so that when an article is all right for one newspaper it may be a little bit out of "kilter" for the next. If a press correspondent didn't want even a capital letter changed he would have to study carefully the particular newspaper to which he was sending the item. For instance, the Toronto Telegram and the Toronto Star hyphenate "to-day," while the Globe and Mail writes "today." The Telegram and the Globe and Mail both capitalize the M and L in "Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor," while the Star writes: "Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labor." All three newspapers would write, however, "Minister of Labor Norman Rogers."

Cherished Newspaper Ideas

But there are more serious changes than these made by editors. Most of these changes are based on the idea that news is supposed to consist of facts, not opinions. The statement, "Business is improving," is an opinion, whereas the statement, "Business is improving, John Smith said," is a fact. If John Smith really did say that. If a news article is headed with the name of the writer, that is, a "by-line," it may be full of opinions, or the writer may try to disguise opinions and gossip as news by inserting such little phrases as, "political observers say," "it is rumored at Queen's Park," "it is felt." For the same reason editors try to keep out of their news columns the words "we" and "our" unless they appear as part of a quoted statement. "We hope for better business this fall," John Smith said, may pass muster, but, "John Smith is ill. We wish him a speedy recovery," brings the personality of the writer needlessly into the picture.

Six Serving-Men

Another weakness of editors is to regard "when" and "where" as of less importance than "what," "how," "why" and "who." If you send in a report beginning: "On Friday night in the community hall a very successful meeting of the Women's Institute was held," you are very likely to find that it will appear in print this way: "A very successful meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the community hall on Friday night." The idea is to win the interest of readers as quickly as possible, and you can't blame editors for trying to make their newspapers as readable as possible when you consider that newsprint costs less than $50 a ton a year or two ago now costs over $60 and is expected to pass $70 after the new year.

50 Years Ago

From The Era File, Nov. 11, 1887.

Miss Flo Roman is visiting at her sister's in Toronto. Miss Scarlett of Toronto has been spending the past week at Councillor Bowden's. Mr. Jas. Fee, formerly of Ballantrae but now of Michigan, was in town last Saturday. Rev. Mr. McLeish, late of Prince Edward Island, occupied the Presbyterian pulpit last Sunday.

Mr. David Mitchell has been laid up for two weeks now from catching cold in a scratch on his hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Chantler of Newton Robinson were visiting at Mrs. Doan's, Hurford St., over Wednesday night. Mr. Thos. Shane left for Parry Sound on Saturday, and expects to remain for the winter with the Parry Sound Lumber Co. Mr. J. A. Bastien represented Newmarket at the conference of week between a freight car and the freight house at Collingwood. Mr. Jas. Finlay, formerly proprietor of Ballantrae hotel, who has spent about a year in Washington territory, returned to Newmarket last Friday on a visit. He says that is the place to go to make money.

We see by the Record, published in Ontario, California, that Messrs. Clubine & Oakley, the former a Newmarket boy, are pushing the real estate business in the "model colony" of Southern California.

Speaking of the mayorality the Toronto Telegram gives a Newmarket boy a great send-off. It says: "Many friends of Mayor Howland are now looking to Ald. Rogers to stand in the gap. He is a strong man. During the year in council he has done the city good service. He has executive and financial ability that qualifies him to grapple with the duties of the mayorality. He is an earnest, honest man who, if he could be persuaded to run, would make a splendid filling of the chair Mayor Howland leaves than any of the other available candidates."

We notice by the Guelph Mercury that Rev. J. McL. Gardiner, who refused to accept a call from Newmarket Presbyterian church on account of ill-health, was last week extended a call from the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, Elmira, and will leave for that city from Teeswater. He is evidently a very popular man and we would advise our Presbyterian friends to repeat their call at once, pressing it by a deputation. Mr. Gardiner was ordained last year to home mission work, and has been preaching for a year in the Northwest.

The Chums Are Led Astray By Pecker

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"It was certainly a nice Indian summer day on Sunday, wasn't it?" remarked Mr. Pecker, the Downy Woodpecker, to his chums, one November morning. "I know that several of our friends decided to stay a little longer on the strength of that nice weather."

"Dear me, I'm sleepy," yawned Chubby Nuthatch. "I'm so annoyed at that Screech Owl over on the edge of the orchard. He was calling this morning at the most unearthly hour. It just ruined my last hour of sleep. And he's been doing it every morning lately. I'm just about fed up with it. I may even have to change my sleeping place if this continues."

"Does the Owl live in the same tree as you do?" asked Chips.

"I'd be scared stiff of that."

"Oh, no!" answered Chubby. "I'd be rather upset by the presence of an Owl in my tree myself, even though he sleeps by day and prowls by night and I do the opposite. He lives a few trees away in the orchard. At least that's where he has been the last few days. As a matter of fact, I know exactly where he is staying. It's in a hollow in an old apple tree."

"Well, now that you mention it, I bet it's that very same Screech Owl that's been disturbing me lately, too," said Pecker. "I never liked that weird wail of the Screech Owls. It's uncanny."

"I've always been rather afraid of Screech Owls," admitted Chips.

"Oh, they're really not very much of a menace to the birds," said Pecker. "They eat more mice than anything else. But what do you say we let Mr. Screech Owl know how much he annoys us?"

"How?" asked Chubby, with interest.

"Oh, I just thought if you knew where he slept in the daytime, we might go and disturb him, to pay him back for disturbing us," answered his friend.

"All right, I'm game," said Chubby. "Let's go. It annoys the Owls dreadfully when they are disturbed in the daytime. Are you coming Chips?"

"I don't know," said Chips, hesitating.

"Why, you're not really afraid of Screech Owls, are you?" scoffed Pecker.

"I'm not afraid of them," said Chips. "I'm only about the same size as Rob Robin, although his fluffy feathers make him look so much plumper. Come on. Be a sport."

"Well, all right," agreed Chips slowly. "I think it's a silly thing to do, because I know that those Screech Owls do eat a certain number of small birds, but I guess he won't hurt anyone when there are several of us and it's broad daylight."

"Fine," said Chubby. "Come on." He led the way and soon they were on the edge of the orchard.

"My idea is that we should sort of sneak up on him and scare him away from his shelter and then we can chase him quite a long way off," said Pecker. "It will serve him right for disturbing us, as well as for eating the occasional bird."

"Well, that is the tree right there," whispered Chubby a moment later. "Let's all make a dash at him at once."

Accordingly the chums rushed at the spot which Chubby had pointed out. Sure enough, there was the luckless Screech Owl and he tumbled out of the tree blinking and wondering what on earth was happening. Pecker took a daring peck at him.

Gathering courage from the reckless Pecker, Chubby and Chips flew along, scolding at the Owl and taking brave dives at him.

"This is easy," exclaimed Chubby gleefully. "We've driven him a long way off all ready, and maybe he won't come back at all."

"Leave me alone," whimpered the little Owl as he tried to escape his tormentors. "I'll get even with you for this."

"Did you hear what he said?" Chips asked his friends. "He may do something terrible to us or get one of his bigger relatives to do it for him. I know we've turned around and go home now."

"Oh, all right," said Pecker. "I think we've bothered him enough for this time. He's away on ahead of us now, anyway."

"I wish we hadn't done that," complained Chips on the way home. "I know Cora will be furious when she finds out. She will be afraid that the Owl will come and catch one of us some nice dark night, in revenge. And moreover, she would say that it was a very mean thing to do and unworthy of a kind, cheerful Chickadee. It's all right for Kingbirds and Red-headed Woodpeckers and other carefree birds to fight with other birds, but I wish we hadn't done it."

"Oh, don't be a spoil sport," said Pecker. "I don't feel a bit ashamed, do you Chubby?"

"Well," began Chubby doubtfully. "I don't feel exactly proud of myself. That was the sort of thing an English Sparrow would do. I hope nobody else saw us do it. If Handsome, the Blue Jay, saw us, he will mention it every time he ever criticizes him again. And what's more, he would go straight to that Owl and tell him our names, and then laugh at us if we looked nervous. I rather think Chips is right."

"You folks are ridiculous," grumbled Pecker. "The next time I want to tease someone, I won't ask you to join me."

"That's kind of a good idea," said the conscience-stricken Chips.

The Common Round

By Isabel Inglis Colville

"All Valiant Dust"

As we look back over the past five thousand years, there is one thing which every land has had in common—battlegrounds; man seems, for the most part, to have been a fighting animal—he has fought to keep his own land, to gain new lands, for gold, for religion, and in some cases for the sake of fighting. All down the ages it seems to have been undreamed of that nations or peoples could settle difficulties without resorting to arms.

And so, when 1914 came, with its threat to engulf the whole world in a mad orgy of blind and war, the clause "sunk and the allies' war cry sounded stronger to ears accustomed enough to the sound of "we are going to war," but when people heard "we are going to war to end war," it started a train of thought, which, in spite of repeated set-backs, has grown and grown.

Before 1914, there seemed but one way to settle difficulties, and from ancient times, prophets, priests and kings had sent their people out to fight, until the best prepared army, shouted above their fallen foe that "might was right."

But 1914 saw a new type of army in our midst. These were not men trained from their youth to handle arms—to face the fact that in all probability their fate would be to fall in battle—they were boys fresh from school, from the office, from the farm and from college. They were fired with a great enthusiasm to help drive back an army, which had invaded a small, neutral and practically unprepared country; they left their comfortable homes, good jobs, preparation for life work, and never stopped to count the cost—they were fighting for an ideal, and those who fight for high ideals cannot altogether fail, no matter how dark the prospect may be at times.

But could those valiant hearts who lie beneath their white crosses far from home and loved ones, return, a silent army, to spend this Remembrance Day, in their former haunts, might they not wonder who had blundered? Where in this dictator-ridden, armed-to-the-teeth world, was their ideal of a world made safe for democracy? Was it for this they had endured the cold, the hunger, the agony of uncertainty where death lurked from earth and sky and where friends fell beside you, and you dared not pause, for you were at war to end war, and you must not stop?

Could that silent army give tongue, would it say we had let the torch with which they hoped to light the way to better things, fall, and so set the world again afire with the war fever? Could they be given a vision of us as we stand for those two minutes of almost unearthly silence, might they not wonder, as they looked about, if this were the only time in the year, that apart from their loved ones, their dying for their ideal was remembered?

If it could only take the match of an ill-considered word to set the nations across the sea, at one another's throats, and as far as one can see, the remedy for the deadly disease of war, is not being applied any more skillfully than before 1914.

Diplomacy seems like a badly balanced seesaw, which is apt to fall one way or the other down with a thud, and resultant soreness; and at the heart of every nation is suspicion, with a capital "S."

What one nation will dare to be the first to lay down her arms, without the fear of being the fox, with the dog upon her.

If this Remembrance Day could see a better understanding, even between the nations who will observe it—a desire to work in real union for the settlement of all difficulties by peaceful means, surely might would be right, in this case, for a combination of so many nations working with one purpose—to avoid the seeming necessity for war, would have to find real solutions.

I think, if we were to faithful to those who gave so much, our prayer in those two silent minutes on Remembrance Day should be, "May the peace of God, which passes all understanding, enter into the hearts of the nations," for such a peace cannot be broken.

ANSORVELD

The first mile of road from Yonge St. on the Bradford flats was not smooth. But as we neared the Dutch village the trail became so uneven that we were forced to a five-miles-an-hour pace. After figging about over this for awhile we reached a row of unusual houses set in a straight line. "One thing I will say," stated the patriarch, John Rupke, with a smile, "the road is improving every year."

A hundred people live in the village proper, with another hundred on Julianna Ave., and in other surrounding suburbs. Our escort suggested that we visit four people before our o'clock when we should be in readiness for a session with Miss Aileen Nolan at the school. John Rupke was building a cow stable behind the house. (We didn't see the cow, but in the stable of Jan Rupke, we did see a goat, the only head of livestock evident in the village.) When we explained our errand, he expressed great pleasure at the suggestion of arriving on school days after year.

So did his brother Jan Rupke, and a powerful young man named Valentyn.

Never have we found a rural or urban community that appeared so receptive to ideas, so eager to better its condition. The inmates of Kingsley Farm, the inhabitants of Ansonveld, have time hanging on their hands. If we can only find the right approach to their problems and bridge the gap caused by their unfamiliarity with the English language.

Surely these people of the Dutch village have a contribution for Canadian culture. But their contribution can never be made if they rust undevoted on the plains of Holland Marsh.

The Return Of The Swallows

By GOLDEN GLOW

Once again the swallows of San Juan have taken their long winter flight—and, as always, exactly on Oct. 23. A friend in California first called my attention to the fact that this certain day of the year, year after year, on March 19, and leave every year, for their winter home, on Oct. 23. They come in from the sea, and they fly straight out to sea, nobody knows where they come from, or where they go; but it has been said that swallows, similar to the birds who summer at San Juan each year, have been seen at Jerusalem and in other parts of the Holy Land, and legend has it that they are the same birds.

I headed this little article with the words "The Return of the Swallows," which is a misnomer, for it isn't their return, but the reverse, their departure! However, I don't doubt, many who may read this will recall the beautiful poem by that name in our old high school reader. I used to love it, and do still. And "The Return of the Swallows" seemed a suitable title.

It used to be a sort of legend, the strange story about the coming and the departure of these special swallows on March 19 and Oct. 23, but it is now a well authenticated fact, and twice a year you will see it mentioned in the daily papers. No doubt many noticed it, as I did, last month on that certain date. Their migration was reported as usual. So watch the papers next spring, and no doubt you will be reminded by the sight of them reporting their return on March 19.

It is certainly a mystery how they time themselves to that exact day, year after year, and those who make a study of the habits of birds, can find no explanation for it.

Last week I was sweeping the verandah when I heard, as clear as a bell, a robin carolling just as it were springing up in the maple tree next to me. I said to myself it can't be a robin, it must be a startling imitating a robin and trying to fool me—for the robins left for the south some time ago. But not! There it was; for to satisfy myself I went along the pavement to make sure.

Stood right under the tree and saw it plainly, red-breast and all. I said to myself, "I am convinced the need of Newmarket is the same as all the rest of the world today. I am also aware that they could not take everybody's advice, or they might be like the old man and his ass. It is also true that the ministry has today have largely the whip-hand of the congregation, which tends to breed a fishy view. You only need to think of some staying 20 or 25 years in some of the Toronto churches. We need a minister who does not preach to tickle the ear, or fill the head, but one who can reach the heart, and fill it. For with the heart is the seat of the intellect, and with the heart the confession is made unto salvation. To many today are satisfied with being a church member, and that will not save anybody, if they do not meet the conditions, laid down in God's word. And without a new heart they are ashamed to confess Christ by prayer, or testimony."

So we go to church for what we can put in it, and not just for what we can get out of it. But remember the first thought should be worship.

First of all, the church should be a soul-saving church, and not a place for entertainment only. Some of the ministers today overlook the social side, and there is a possibility of it tending to communism, and the church is not clear of it today. Some ministers give lectures on Sunday evenings, on certain writers and their books. And others can buy ready-made sermons. I don't want a man to give ready-made or second-hand sermons, do you? The only ministers that can fill a church today, and keep it filled, are those that preach the gospel in its simplicity, taking God at His word, which is the only sure foundation and cure for all present-day ills.

I heard a minister say, on Sunday, that ten years ago a young man would not be seen with a woman that smoked cigarettes, and today cigarette smoking is as common as dirt and just as dirty. Let us remember the youth of today, and also the youth of tomorrow.

W.A. HEAR STORY

OF MARY AND MARTHA
The regular meeting of the W.A. of the United church was held last Thursday afternoon, with the president in the chair. After singing, the 103rd psalm was read in unison. Mr. L. P. Rolph sang: "I have such a wonderful Saviour, Everybody should know." Mrs. Thompson, evangelistic superintendent, then called on Mrs. A. Brammar to take charge of the worship service. The topic was the story of Mary and Martha, the friends of Jesus. Mrs. Brammar said that "Martha was the homemaker and Mary was the dreamer. We should avoid all extremes. Justice and balance is the foundation stone of all religion." Prayer was then offered by Mrs. Thompson.

The superintendents gave their reports. Then the following were appointed as a nominating committee to bring in the names of officers for the coming year: Mrs. W. J. Thompson, Mrs. R. Meads and Mrs. A. Brammar. The meeting closed with prayer.

BANDITS, MURDERERS, TURN PREACHERS, SPEAKER SAYS

Rev. Allan Reoch gave a very interesting and entertaining lecture in China in the Presbyterian church last Monday evening. He showed pictures on the screen of the wonderful power of the gospel of Christ in transforming the lives of men. He held his audience spellbound as he told of bandits, murderers, thieves and robbers turned into preachers of the gospel.

"The Chinese," he said, "are anxious for the gospel. They are tired of their old worn out religion of Buddhism. They will come to prayer meetings as early as five o'clock in the morning before they go to work. It is very difficult to get buildings large enough to accommodate the crowds that come to hear the evangelist. The need of the people is appalling. It is a challenge to the church at home to arouse itself out of its indifference and send out trained missionaries to meet the need."

REVIEW WORK OF GREAT MISSIONARIES

The November meeting of the Evangelical auxiliary of the United church was held on Tuesday evening in the church parlors, with Mrs. Robert Pritchard, leader of group three, in charge of the devotional and study periods. Mrs. Bothwell read the scripture lesson and Miss Jeanne Robinson accompanied by Gerald Rutledge sang an appropriate solo.

The second chapter of the study book entitled, "Unto the Ends of the Earth," was reviewed by Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. J. A. Matland, Miss A. B. Scott, and Miss Bertha Neilly. The missionary outposts, established in various countries by such men as Dr. John Geddies, who labored in the New Hebrides, Rev. Mr. Currie, known as "The Great Heart of Angola," Kilhorn, Hartwell, Stevenson and Hart will long be centres for the advancement of Christianity in the communities where these men worked. Mrs. Edward Hicson conducted the remainder of the meeting. Letters of thanks were read from ministers in Saskatchewan whose congregations had received clothing sent recently from the ladies of Trinity United church.

Articles for the fancy work and apron booths may be taken to the church on Dec. 2 from 8 to 8 p.m., when final preparations are to be made.

The December meeting of the auxiliary is scheduled for the evening of Dec. 14, when Mrs. Snell and Mrs. H. N. Wilkinson of Toronto will be guests.

SHOP RE-DECORATED

Now said to be one of the smartest shops in the province, outside of the larger centres, the barber-shop of E. H. Adams has been re-decorated and re-decorated. Use has been made of the most modern composite construction boards and the result is extremely attractive. New counters, new lighting, new ventilation contribute to the pleasing result.

CHEROKEE CLUB WILL MEET

The regular meeting of the Cherokee Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Fountain, 60 Eagle St., on Friday evening at 8 p.m.

IN SEARCH OF WATER

Howard's hill-top home. It is amazing to see a heavy stream of water, filling a two-inch pipe, about four feet above the ground. You feel like looking for the engine. Reddish splashes on the stones indicated the presence of iron, which is good for you but not for the plumbing fixtures.

At D. W. Kenny's place a little bit north, we saw another strong flow of water from an artesian well. The water here and at Howard's tasted fine to us. We went a little farther along to Fred Andrews' farm, and saw water springing up through several springs just this side of the canal locks.

We didn't visit the James Bond well opposite the cemetery, but on the suggestion of Mr. McCordick and Mr. Evans we went west on Huron St. to the old Millard farm, west of the town, and found a real well there. Mr. Williams had heard that this well was dry, but a two-inch pipe was over half full, although

High School Alumni Elect Executive While "At Home"

Mrs. Ross Linton To Head Ex-Student Group During 1938

About 100 ex-students and their friends gathered in the Aurora high school auditorium on Thursday of last week to enjoy the alumni's sixth annual "at home". Refreshments were served and during the intermission the members of next year's executive were chosen. Principal J. H. Knowles was named honorary president. Mrs. Ross Linton was elected president; O. L. Andrews, vice-president; George Bilbrough, secretary-treasurer.

In addition, the following were elected to the committee: Miss Hazel Hamblin, Mrs. C. Spence, W. Barker and Kenneth Davis.

Puck-Chasers Seek Early Tests Before Entering O.H.A. Games

Hallowe'en Dance Contributions Over $85 To Club Coffers

In an effort to get the junior hockey team in first-class form before the opening of the Ontario Hockey Association schedules, the Aurora club will enter the S.P.A. competition, it was decided on Wednesday of last week.

This series is played on artificial ice, in Toronto, and can therefore be played before the formation of natural ice permits the O.H.A. schedules to get under way. The club will also investigate the possibility of an exhibition game with the Midland club, as it is understood that artificial ice is available there.

After paying expenses of $32.05 in connection with their Hallowe'en dance, the club finds itself richer by more than $85, a report showed. It is planned to purchase worth-while equipment for the team this year, and steps are being taken to ensure a safe place for the storing of the necessary pads and gloves so they will be available for next year's team.

A group of some 20 boys are continuing their workouts in the high school gym two nights a week, and they plan to have several work-outs on skates before their first game.

KETTLBY NORMAN CURTIS LAID TO REST

"The many friends and relatives of Norman L. Curtis were shocked to hear of his sudden passing last Wednesday morning at his home in Toronto. The deceased was a former resident of this community, was born on the fifth line of King, at Kettley, 60 years ago, and has resided in London and Toronto for the past thirty-five years. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John L. Curtis of Kettley. He was in the oil business for many years.

The late Mr. Curtis was a member of the United Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 118, of Schomberg, the members of which assisted with the funeral service, which was held from the United church, Kettley, on Saturday afternoon, and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. W. Strapp. Interment

ABOUT TOWN

ROOM WANTED

A group of boys, sponsored by two reputable Aurorans, placed before the council on Monday a request for the use of a room in the town hall. The boys, 14 years of age and over, wished to meet as a study group.

The council decided on a charge of $2.50 a night for the use of the room. It was pointed out that the room would have to be heated and that heating costs money. The council was quite right, we believe, in acting thus on the information before them.

Subsequently investigation on our part brought to light the fact that the group is for the purpose of vocational study. We learned also that the charge of $2.50 will prohibit the boys meeting in the room.

We Make An Exception

We are not in the habit of pulling other people's chestnuts out of the fire. Even pistachios do not come from scorched fingers. It happens, however, that we are interested in what is called "boys' work." This is not because of anything saintly in our character, but simply because we believe that if ever this world is to deserve the title "civilized" we'll have to develop a few civilized people.

We believe that the establishment of this group of boys would help mould them in a more civilized shape. Surely there is, somewhere in Aurora, a room where these boys can meet to enjoy the leadership which has been offered them by two of Aurora's citizens. Here is an opportunity that should be eagerly grasped by any club, lodge, church or individual.

A room must be found.

NOTHING TO SAY

We walked the floor. We even brushed our teeth. We even darned a sock. And still we couldn't think of anything for this column. So we went for a walk.

On our way down Yonge St., inspiration—in the form of a disgruntled hitch-hiker—stepped up and clutched us by the lapel.

"Are you a newspaper man?" he asked.

"Sure," we said unblushingly, "in fact, we are the newspaper man."

"Well, then, I wish you would put something in the paper about us hitch-hikers. This is a fine town . . . you can stand for half an hour on Yonge St. without anyone offering you a lift to Toronto."

We Oblige

Of course, we said we would co-operation with all—dictation from none—as Captain Edna laughingly phrased it. So, if you happen to be driving to Toronto, you might stop at the corner of Yonge and Tyler Sts. and give the lad a lift. If he's still there.

Having thus fulfilled our promise, we'd like to say that we think (a) that anyone who wants to go to Toronto should have his head examined; and (b) that anyone who wants to hitch-hike should have his feet examined.

THUMB VERSUS TOES

We can understand the desire to travel. We can understand a person lacking the money to do so on wheels. But we neither understand nor forgive anyone refusing to use his legs for purposes of locomotion.

If we wanted to be catly about the generation that is treading on our heels—and we do, rather—we would say it is a generation of hitch-hikers . . . and feel that we'd done a neat job of describing it.

Thumb Fun!

It is a nice, intelligent generation. It knows all the answers—it knows someone who does. It wants to go places. But it wants someone else to pay the fare.

The depression (remember?) has had a lot to do with the existence of this attitude. Failing to find employment by the same means as did their fathers, today's children have come to expect some legislative sleight-of-hand to pull a job out of a hat . . . a silk bag belonging to someone else, preferred.

Perhaps we're just crabbing. Perhaps we're jealous of the lads with the arrogant thumbs. Perhaps the hitch-hiker made a mistake in thinking us a newspaper man. Perhaps we're just an old meanie. Or perhaps you, too, should read the Canadian Youth Act.

Aurora Goes Hollywood

We were at a theatre again this week, wondering what Robert Taylor had that we hadn't—and what we should do about it—when what should plunge across the silver screen but dear old Aurora. An enterprising newsreel chap had paid a visit to the hunt club, it seems, and there was the screen all cluttered up with horses and dogs—to prove it.

That's life, we guess. Go to the movies to get away from it all, and it all comes right back at you. Small world.

ESSAY ON PEACE READ TO IN-AS-MUCH CLUB

The following is a paper read by Miss Millsap before a recent meeting of the In-As-Much Club, and is of particular interest at this time:

"The key to peace is in a change of mental, moral and emotional outlook, which will bring down nations from their present absolute and God-like position to a far more modest situation as representatives of mankind."

"The idea was expressed by a famous Englishwoman, in 'patriotism is not enough.' Let me then say, unless we rise above patriotism there will be no peace."

"The outline of the problem of peace suggests that the solution is difficult. It is in fact one of the highest ambitions of man, only comparable in greatness to that quest for truth and knowledge which is the title of the nobility of mankind."

"There are bristly and fancy writers who extol war as heroic, and sing the bracing effects of man-hunting on man. Such pen-and-inkers seldom fail to accuse pacifism of being a degenerating and unmanly doctrine."

"They are mistaken. True pacifism is a stern doctrine which keeps its eyes wide open, not only on the sordid dangers of war and on the drifting ways which lead thereto, but also on

NAME OFFICERS FOR FESTIVAL VISIT MARKHAM LODGE DINNER

Dr. C. R. Boulding was elected president of the York Music Festival executive at a meeting held in the town hall on Friday night. Vice-presidents are: Miss Marie Draper, Mount Albert; Miss Ada Campbell, Weston; Chas. A. Malloy, and Rev. G. O. Lightbourn.

S. O. E. LODGE NAMES HEADS

Members of the Sons of England met in Aurora on Tuesday evening of last week and elected their executive officers for 1938. Brother Martin Southwood was named president; Leslie Eveleigh, vice-president; John Offord, chaplain; Wm. Coleman, financial and recording secretary; Dr. W. J. Stevenson, treasurer and surgeon.

Brother James MacDonald is the past president. The following were elected aides: Ist, Chas. Fray; 2nd, Reuben Long; 3rd, Gordon Ball; 4th, Herbert Holt; 5th, Donald Glass; 6th, Murray MacLeod. Inside guard, Robert Hodskinson; outside guard, Nat. Harman; auditors, Brothers Rowe and E. J. Eveleigh; trustees, Brothers Rank and Bush.

Brother William Coleman was elected delegate to the Grand Lodge, with Brother Offord as substitute. The next meeting, which will be held on Nov. 18, will be a white rose meeting.

Snowball

A Hallowe'en party was held at the school on Friday afternoon. While the children were enjoying themselves with games, they were agreeably surprised by a visit from a group of witches, from the Women's Institute, who made their annual visit, with lots of goodies for the children.

Tom Cutting and George Ferguson have gone north for the hunting season.

The charitable gang were out again, this time to benevolence Mr. and Mrs. Norman Haines, newlyweds just back from their honeymoon. Everyone enjoyed themselves and the boys stored away a plentiful amount of cake, sandwiches and coffee.

Mrs. J. Gleave is making a very slow recovery after an accident on the highway, when she was injured by a bicycle.

The Women's Association and W.M.S. will enjoy a motor trip to Hampton on Wednesday of this week and hold their monthly meeting at the home of an ex-member, Mrs. Merrell Johnston.

The Y.P.S. will hold their meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Copson on Thursday evening this week.

Ansnorveld

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Postoma and Miss Elroy Havinga of Toronto spent Sunday with the latter's parents.

Mr. Ralph Havinga left for Burlington recently.

Mr. George Horlings and Miss H. Prins spent the weekend with Mr. Horlings' sister in Windsor.

Mr. D. Hyma of Burlington visited Mr. and Mrs. K. Miedema last week.

Peace Forms Club Topic

The In-As-Much Club met on Thursday of last week at the home of Mrs. W. Powell, Harrison Ave. Twenty-six members answered the roll-call with the name of their favorite author.

The program was devoted to peace, and consisted of a paper by Miss Millsap, "The price of peace," a solo by Miss M. Teasdale, a paper on "Science and peace" by Miss Powell and a short play, entitled "The Women's Next Crusade" in which Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Beach, Mrs. Caulfield and Miss R. Chapman took part.

Miss Powell and Jean concluded the program with a duet, "In perfect peace."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. George Elliott of Listowel spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Jim Elliott, Wellington St.

Mr. Bert Lynd of Toronto was in town for the high school alumni dance on Thursday evening.

TOWN HEALTHY M. O. H. STATES

"Except for a few cases of measles Aurora has been practically free from infectious diseases this year," Dr. W. J. Stevenson, medical officer of health, told The Era this week.

Between 40 and 50 children were given toxoid treatment recently, it was learned.

"Only two or three of the parents have any objection to the toxoid," the M.O.H. stated. "In such cases we do not urge it."

"There has been no case of typhoid in Aurora for five years," Dr. Stevenson said.

HOLD EUCHE TUESDAY

The Catholic Women's League of Aurora will hold a euchre in Mechanics' Hall on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at 8:30 p.m. There will be plenty of good prizes, also a lucky number. You are invited to come and bring your friends. Admission 25 cents.

REPAIR ROAD WITH GRAVEL

The Baptist Young People's Union met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Cook, on Thursday evening of last week with the president, Mrs. H. Hamilton, in charge. The scripture reading was by Mrs. Aylmer. The secretary, Miss Grooms, read the minutes of the last meeting.

Very interesting and picturesque slides of India were shown by Mrs. Hardy with Rev. H. B. Hardy explaining the scenes.

Mrs. Ward Cook served delightful refreshments. All spent an enjoyable time.

The next B.Y.P.U. will meet on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. Will Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hollands, Miss Mae Hollands, Mrs. Skippin, and Mr. F. Pelling, all of Toronto, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fungatt on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. "Rhyse" Williams of Toronto visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Williams, on Sunday.

Miss Verna Houghton from Aurora has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Houghton.

The congregation of the United church will Rev. H. W. Strapp a speedy recovery from the bad cold he had last Sunday, making it quite hard for him to preach his sermon.

Beneficial repairs have been carried on at the eighth line, south of the main road of Pottageville. About sixty rods of ditching and many trucks were used for spreading gravel from the main road south, making it look much nicer and filling all mud holes and thus making it safer for traffic.

Occasional fields of fall wheat are exceptionally fine, but the general run is not up to the farmers' expectations.

Third Meeting Needed For Busy Councillors

Finance Report, Insurance To Be Considered On Monday

VETS PLAN NEW YEARS

In a "clean-up" campaign of outstanding business, the council met for its second meeting of the month on Monday night. At the conclusion of the meeting it was decided to make it three in a row by holding another session next Monday for the purpose of considering the report of the finance committee and dealing with the matter of the town's liability insurance.

Intimation of plans for a happy New Year were received when an application was read from the Aurora Veterans, for use of Mechanics' hall on the night of Dec. 31.

A request was received from Dr. J. L. Urquhart and A. Quinn, asking that they be given the use of the room on the second floor of the town hall, for an undenominational group of boys. It would be a study group of boys 14 years old and up, it was stated.

"I would say they should be charged half the cost of Mechanics' hall," Councillor John Stuart suggested.

"That is a very good thought in dealing with all cases," Councillor Lorne Lee agreed.

Accordingly, the group will be asked to pay $2.50 a night for the use of the room.

James Whitehead and three others living at the end of Kennedy St. are paying a double rate for their electricity from the town, Mayor Dr. C. R. Boulding said. "They can now get rural hydro at a lower rate."

"We could give them the same rate as those inside the town," Councillor Stuart said. "I think we should try to get all the customers we can."

At the suggestion of Councillor Lee, the matter was referred to the electric light committee for a decision.

A letter was received from the C.N.R. expressing their wish to co-operate in reducing unnecessary whistling at the crossings.

The decision of the council in connection with the assessment of property belonging to the T. H. Lennox estate will be appealed, the council learned.

"We will have to prepare our case," the mayor advised. Several local men will be approached for the purpose of valuing the property.

"A householder on Centre St. wants a pole moved so that he can build a double garage," Councillor Stuart reported. "It would mean buying a new pole at a cost of $60."

"If he is going to get added revenue from the garage he should be willing to pay the cost of a new pole," the mayor stated. The council agreed.

Firemen To Present Cheque To Boys' Band At Concert

Firefighters' Dance Nets $77.07 For Young Musicians

"We are cleaning up the accounts for the dance we gave for the benefit of the Boys' Band," a deputation from the Aurora Fire Brigade told the council on Monday night.

"We would like to present the cheque to the boys at their concert on Friday night. Our expenses were $119.20 and we would like the council to take off the amount of $5 which we were charged for the hall. This would enable us to give the band the amount of $77.07."

"There are a lot of sevens there," Mayor Dr. C. R. Boulding said.

"We're hoping it will be a lucky number," the deputation stated.

"I think it is as little as we can do," Councillor Lee suggested.

"Let's take off the charge of $5." The Boys' Band will have plenty of assistance in staging their Friday night concert. The Era learned later from P. M. Thompson, Dr. Boulding and Miss Bates will sing; Dixie Dean and his organ accompaniment will give several solos and there will be tap dancing numbers from the team of Calhoun and Davis.

Donald Moore, grandson of the bandmaster, will lend a helping hand with his clarinet, it was stated.

Two Local Groups Hold Reunion In Toronto Home; Name Officers

G. Doolittle Is President; Mrs. Geo. Walker Is Vice-President

Forty-five members and friends of the "Willing Workers" class and "Perseverance Band" of the Aurora Baptist church held their annual reunion on Saturday of last week at the home of Mrs. Margaret Walker and Miss Martha Walker in Toronto.

The evening was spent in games and in the renewing of old acquaintances, after which a social hour was enjoyed, followed by a short business session. Letters were read from members who had been unable to attend.

An election of officers was held and plans were made for the reunion next year, which will take the form of a turkey dinner to be held in Aurora.

Clarence Doolittle is the new president, Mrs. George Walker, vice-president, and Mrs. Leslie Borden, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Harry Mount of Ottawa was present and told of some interesting experiences of his work on the Labrador coast with Sir Richard Grenfell.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mellick, Dunnville; Mr. and Mrs. Wilmet Lynam, Hespeler; Mrs. R. J. Rogers, Clarkson, as well as a number from Toronto and Aurora.

The lucky prize was won by the hostess's grand-daughter, Miss Marie Hulme, Oak Ridge. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the hostesses, for their kind hospitality, after which all joined hands and brought a very pleasant evening to a close by singing "Blest be the tie that binds."

RECOVERS FROM ILLNESS

Mrs. J. G. MacDonald, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, is recovering nicely, and it is expected that she will arrive home this week.

Temperanceville

The W.A. of St. John's church, Oak Ridge, held their regular monthly meeting last Wednesday at the home of the president, Mrs. Snively, and was attended by a goodly number of members. After the devotional and business, a number of members told of some very interesting and helpful incidents which took place during the teaching mission. The services were very helpful. At the close of the meeting a dainty lunch was enjoyed by all.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.A.S. will be held at the home of Mrs. Arwood Harman on Thursday, November 18 at 2:30 p.m.

The A.Y.P.A. held a very enjoyable Hallowe'en social last Monday evening at the home of Miss Ruth Korawell. The next meeting will be held in the parish hall on Monday at 8 p.m. Leonard Harman will be the guest speaker. All young people are cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Thomas and family, and Mrs. W. E. Saunders have taken up residence in Toronto. The community is sorry to lose these families from its midst, but wish them every success in their new homes.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Veitch of Uxbridge spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Boynton and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Phillips on Sunday.

TREASURE HUNT

- By Barbara Webb

CHAPTER 30

The Final Reward

Anton crossed the room and made as though to sweep Lindy

Lou in his arms, but she stepped away from him.

"No, Anton, not yet. I have something I want to ask you first."

"Ask away, but don't talk too long. I want to kiss you and hold you tight. That's what I came out here for tonight."

Lindy Lou closed her hands tight. "Listen, Anton, I want to tell you what happened at Twin-oaks."

She sat on a straight chair and,

once started, told the story clearly and to the point concluding with the revelations of Jake and Bill. "And so, Anton, I want to hear your side of the story."

Anton laughed. "Why, there isn't anything to it. I never meant to take the treasure if they found one. I just thought that a couple of men would stand a better chance of getting it for us, and if it was found we could be married that much sooner."

regarded it as an investment, frankly, in our happiness. I told them not to hurt you, to keep out of trouble. And I don't see that you've anything to be sore about."

"Suppose they had found the treasure, Anton. There wasn't any, as we know now, but suppose they had."

"Why, then I'd have divided it with you. I knew that if you got it you'd be soft about dividing it around with your father and mother and brother and I felt it really was yours, and mine, too, since we were going to be married. And since there wasn't any treasure there—why, we're back where we started from."

And once more he made to take

Lindy Lou in his arms. Once more Lindy Lou held him off.

"I think it was a mean, deceitful, underhanded thing to do, Anton.

All of it, from the time you took the map and made a copy of it, up to now when you try to just ify yourself."

Anton was taken back for a moment, then he made a counter-attack. "I know what's the matter with you, Lindy Lou. You've fallen in love with this hick Lee something or other down there.

He was the skunk that helped you brazen things out, and you've fallen for him. Well, listen to me. He's out. You're my girl, over; her relationship with Anton at an end. There were a few curious questions from the girls at the office and Frances took pleasure in telling Lindy Lou how she had seen Anton out with other girls while Lindy Lou was away. Lindy Lou felt strangely numb about Anton; he just didn't seem to matter at all.

Every evening that week she tried to write to Lee, but instead would sit at her table with pen and paper before her, unable to write a word. She ought to tell him her engagement to Anton was ended, but she couldn't. It was too much like an invitation to him, too much like trying to remind him of what he had said to her their last evening together.

Perhaps, since she had insisted on coming back to New York he no longer cared for her. He had asked her to stay and she had refused.

She would take out the pearl pin and look at it. Then she would remove from a secret corner in the drawer the slip of paper with old Pearl's message of it. Lindy Lou seemed to find that message fascinating, for she read it again and again and even wept over it once or twice.

But she found she could not write to Lee. She found, too, that incessant thinking of him eased her headache a trifle and she built vague dreams of what might happen if they ever met again. The days passed and she did not hear from him, and the heartache grew worse.

"He might write to me," Lindy

Lou thought. "He can't have forgotten me so soon as this. He isn't that kind."

It wasn't pride exactly that kept her from writing first. It was rather a kind of paralysis of her emotions after all she had gone through. Little by little she grew more like herself around the house, found her old saucy answers ready at the office, felt the past receding from her like a dream. Anton had left on his trip. Mr. Hillcrest was back at his office now. Joe was still away, life was very uneventful in the Brooklyn flat.

Then one evening as she came up from the subway Lindy Lou met her mother hurrying to the store.

"Hurry, Lindy Lou," Mrs. Hillcrest cried, "we've got company for supper. Your papa isn't home yet and I left him sitting in the living room while I came to the store."

Lindy Lou was bewildered by this rush of words, "what company?" she asked, "and who is in the living room?"

"Oh, Lindy Lou, you go and see. I'll do my marketing and wait here until your papa gets home for me. Oh, Lindy Lou, go

MOUNT ALBERT SERVE SUPPER TO NEARLY 800

The anniversary services at the United church last Sunday were both largely attended, by members, adherents and old friends and residents of other nearby congregations. Rev. Mr. Wilson, pastor of the church, preached at both services and the choir under the leadership of Miss Marie Draper, rendered very acceptable music, which was enjoyed by all those attending the services.

On Wednesday a hot fowl supper provided by the ladies, was a great success, nearly 800 tickets were sold and there was plenty of fowl for everyone. This was followed by a play in three acts, entitled, "Father goes domestic," put on by the King St. United church of Toronto. The play was very amusing and cleverly portrayed by the actors.

Receipts for the thankoffering on Sunday amounted to $297 and the supper $440 which was very encouraging to both pastor and people.

Mrs. R. Thirk of Toronto spent last week in town with old friends.

Miss Alma Hayes recently had the misfortune to step off the side walk and sprain her ankle quite badly. It is thought that there should be a few more street lights as some parts are very dark.

Mr. Stewart of Goodwood has moved his family into the house recently vacated by H. Longhurst on Mill St.

About 60 hunters left here last week for the north country.

Mrs. Kelly of Oshawa made a short visit last week at the home of her brother, Mr. W. S. Robertson.

A number of members of the I.O.O.F. took in the open installation at Sutton lodge last week.

Mr. Jack Crozier of Brantford is spending a week's holidays with his friend, Mr. J. Tilley.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Cook and Eldred of Orillia were at the home of Mrs. H. Ross on Sunday.

Sunday-school at the United church has been changed to the afternoon for the winter months.

The W. M. S. of the United church are having a birthday party and hot supper on Wednesday, Dec. 1, in the Sunday-school room.

Five boxes of clothing etc., are packed ready to ship to the west from the Cheerio class of the Sunday-school and W.M.S.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gillingham were visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Angus King's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morton of Uxbridge spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Morton.

The many friends of Mrs. Emily Groves, one of our recent and very respected neighbors, who is now living in Sutton, will be sorry to know that she is very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Switzer of Beaverton were the guests on Sunday of Mr. Switzer's brother, Mr. R. Switzer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Robinson and little daughter, of Bond Head were guests on Sunday of Mr. Robinson's mother.

Mrs. William Marritt is staying with her son, Mr. Isaac Marritt, while his wife, Dr. Lucy Marritt, is recovering from an operation. The community wishes Dr. Marritt a speedy recovery.

The C.G.I.T. met at the home of Mrs. Roy Pollock, under the very able leadership of Mrs. Frank Marritt and Mrs. B. Fisher.

A very instructive meeting was held by the girls, who will soon be leaders in the community.

After the business meeting a very lovely lunch was served by the hostess and everyone returned home feeling it was very worthwhile to meet.

Mrs. Stanley Cook is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Roy Pollock, this week.

Sutton West

The anniversary services of Sutton United church will be held on Sunday, Nov. 21, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. The morning service will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. N. S. Anderson.

Special music will be rendered by the local church choir.

In the evening Rev. R. V. Wilson, B.A., B.D., of Mount Albert, will be the guest speaker and Queensville choir will render special music.

On Monday evening, Nov. 22, a hot fowl supper will be served in the church hall.

Glenville

Miss Aleta Gould of Toronto, also Miss Burnfield of Barrie, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. W. Gould.

Mr. Alfred D. Harmon visited on Sunday with friends in Toronto.

Miss Frances Somerville and Mr. Russell Somerville visited Mr. and Mrs. Wm. George of Snowball on Sunday.

Miss Leone Dunseath of Toronto spent Sunday at Mr. S. Somerville's.

Holland Landing

Mr. and Mrs. T. Gray of Allandale and Mr. and Mrs. G. Gray and son Bobby of Orillia were Sunday visitors at Mrs. G. Forsyth's.

QUEENSVILLE

WEATHER RUINS RADIO PROGRAM

Quite a number attended the banquet on Tuesday evening in the United church basement.

The speakers were much enjoyed but the radio feature was a failure on account of weather conditions.

The Sunday-school convention will be held in Queensville United church on Nov. 18.

The W.A. will hold a pot luck supper next Tuesday afternoon.

On Dec. 21 school section no. 2 (Hillside) will hold a Christmas concert.

Miss M. McArthur of Bradford is visiting friends at Queensville.

Messrs. W. Kavanagh, J. Kavanagh, Thomas Milne and Ernie Draper have gone to South River to work in the lumber camp there. The community wishes them luck.

There will be a eulchre in the schoolhouse on Friday evening, Nov. 12.

The Women's Institute will hold a eulchre on Friday, Nov. 12, at the Queensville schoolhouse in aid of Robert Johnston, who had an unfortunate accident.

Belhaven

All who attended Belhaven Union Sunday-school last Sunday enjoyed the splendid temperance address given by Roy Pollock of Keswick. The attendance was better than usual and it is hoped that it will continue to be on the increase.

The Women's Institute meeting on Tuesday was well attended, considering the cold windy weather. Dr. Leary of Sutton West gave a very interesting address on the teeth and the importance of proper care, especially for the young.

Miss Iva Stiles told of the possibility of a splendid course in home nursing, which is available for the institute and which would be very instructive for the women and girls of the community. It is hoped that this course may be in progress in the near future.

Miss Mary Arksey favored the Institute meeting with special music and Mrs. Wm. Winch was appointed delegate to attend the convention to be held at the Royal York hotel in Toronto.

YORKDALE CO-OPERATIVE STORE IS NOW OPEN

The following statement is issued by the new Yorkdale Co-operative store, opened on Tuesday.

"The store premises at 52 Main St. have been completely redecorated, new and modern equipment and fixtures have been added, all of which make the co-operative one of the most attractive stores in town. It has got off to a surprisingly good start. The support and interest shown have been most encouraging."

The undertaking is sponsored by upwards of 200 Newmarket patrons who have joined, and for whom the business is conducted. In addition there are about 300 patrons of the Aurora store who have made it such an outstanding success.

"The two stores are being run jointly under a central board of directors, half of whom are from Newmarket and half from Aurora. The managers and the staff are employed and the conduct of the business is supervised by this board. A local management committee will be formed for each branch, which committee will keep in mind the special local interests and requirements and in that capacity assist the directors to serve the local community better."

"Mr. Gordon Purchase, who has served the Aurora store so faithfully and well for almost three years and who has been largely responsible for the phenomenal growth of the Aurora co-operative, has been put in charge of the Newmarket branch. He has worked all his life in the grocery trade, and prior to coming to Aurora he worked for the British Canadian Co-operative in Sydney, N. S., the largest co-operative store in Canada. He is not only an experienced grocery manager but is also fully conversant with the co-operative ideals and methods."

"Mr. Ralph Chant, who has worked for the Superior store in Newmarket for over six years, is chief clerk, and other local help is employed."

"A important feature of the co-operative is the produce department, which handles eggs and dressed poultry co-operatively. Market prices are paid and net profits are distributed to patrons on the basis of sales."

"Co-operation means working together for the common good. This principle can, and is applied, in the practical business field, and the united effort of two communities will go far towards the betterment of the whole district. Now far depends entirely on the loyal support of the patrons."

Visitor: "Does your father ever preach the same sermon twice?" Minister's Son: "Sure he does, but nobody notices it 'cause he hollers in different places."

Crops And Livestock

(Provided by United Farmers Co-operative Co. in the Rural Co-operator.)

Grain

Export business on wheat has been most disappointing as far as Canada is concerned for the past few weeks. Russia and India, which were out of the market last season, are making fairly good-sized shipments to Europe and in addition, the United States, which was buying Canadian wheat last year, is now an exporter. Wheat prices in Winnipeg had a sharp raise up to the end of September, but since that time there has been a gradual decline of around 15 cents per bushel from the high point. It may be necessary to have lower prices still, in order that foreign markets may take some of our surplus wheat off the market in Canada. As far as world conditions are concerned, there is just nicely enough wheat to last out the current season, and no excuse for any severe decline.

Feed prices are very weak at the moment—corn in Chicago is down some 40c within the last two weeks with buyers bidding in the neighborhood of 55c per bushel at Chicago for corn to arrive in November. The U. S. oat crop is big and of fine quality, and American oats are finding their way as far back as into Saskatchewan. This is indeed a case of "carrying coal to Newcastle."

For those requiring to buy carload lots of feed or feed grains these weak markets, that will probably remain with us for another few weeks, should prove a good opportunity of covering on their requirements.

Carlot prices for delivery to Ontario points are about as follows: South African white corn 85c per bushel, South African yellow corn 92c per bushel, Standard No. 1 screenings $28 per ton; ground mill screenings $28 per ton; bran $25; shorts $27; middlings $38; cotton seed meal 41c; $32.50; soyabean oilcake meal $34; linseed oilcake meal 39c, $37 per ton.

Hay

Quite a quantity of hay is being shipped up north by the government, to the dry area around Thessalon. This is mostly coming from the Owen Sound—Meaford district. Also a few inquiries are coming from the United States for second-cut alfalfa. This is hardly ready to bale yet, as it is liable to heat. The Toronto market continues very quiet and overloaded.

Straw

Little demand for straw now for the Winter Fair—they must have good clean wheat or oat straw.

Potatoes

The potato market continues very steady, with prices ranging around 45c to 50c delivered Toronto. There are, however, quite a few coming on the market at the present time, that are of an inferior quality, and what we mean by this is that they have not matured, the frost has got them before they were ready. These have to be sold at any price, and no doubt the market will keep low until after sowing time.

Turnips

There is a fair demand for export turnips at a price running around 12c to 15c to the grower. Our turnips this year seem exceptionally good, and very free from water core. At this time of year prices always start to go down until after sowing time, and then they will likely strengthen. We are getting a few cars into New York this year on account of the good quality.

Butter

During the month of September we had a fairly steady market. The market opened on Sept. 1 with Ontario No. 1's selling at 27c, western 27½c. The market remained at this figure till about Sept. 8, when it dropped back a quarter cent and then on Sept. 15 the market seemed quite slow, with prices ranging from 26½c to 26¾c. On Sept. 18 the market was 26¾c to possibly 27c and seemed quite firm at 26¾c, and on Sept. 20 it had advanced another quarter cent and remained at 27c until Sept. 23 and then it continued at this figure until Sept. 27, when it again advanced to 27½c and remained at this figure until the end of the month.

Markets look fairly steady at the present time and we would not be surprised to see a shade higher prices during the coming month.

Seeds

The quality of all seeds, threshed this season in Ontario, is very poor, no doubt owing to the excessive amount of wet weather experienced during August.

New alfalfa seed is now being offered and buyers have been paying from $10.00 to $12.00 per bushel, in the dist. for the best quality seed, but a large quantity of this year's alfalfa seed will be hard to sell owing to poor germination.

The alfalfa crop was nearly a total failure.

It is too early to say much about red clover, but some districts expect to harvest a limited quantity, but the quality will be poor.

There is a large crop of timothy seed, and prices will be low.

Cattle

Since our last report prices on Ontario butchers steers and heifers have shown a considerable decline. Abattoir companies have been buying butchers cattle in western Canada and having them shipped to their plants direct, which have cost them much less than Ontario cattle, so that our butchers cattle trade has been almost at a standstill for the last five or six weeks and commission houses doing what they can to hold back Ontario shipments, hoping that the situation would right itself. There has been a heavy carry-over each week, and at time of writing there are around 1,000 cattle carried over from last week, and in some cases cattle shipped back home from the market.

There have been a few heavy fat cattle sold for the United States market at from $9 upwards, with a few at $8 to $8.50, but not many good enough to qualify. Butchers steers have been selling around $6 to $6.50 with the odd lot a little higher, the best butchers heifers around $5.75 to $6, while the balance of the butchers steers and heifers sold from $4.75 to $5.50.

Baby beefs are still selling at strong prices, choice around $11, good $9 to $10.50, medium quality not popular at $8 to $8.50. Fat cows have been fairly steady at $4 to $4.25, with the odd light young cow at $4.50, good cows $3.75 to $4, medium $3 to $3.50, cutters $2.50 to $2.75 and canners $2 to $2.25. Choice heavy fat bulls sold from $3.75 to $4, light butchers bulls $4 to $4.25 and bologna bulls $3 to $3.50.

There have been very few cattle shipped from this market to the U.S.A. during the last month, but a few loads of short keep steers were shipped to Lancaster to go into the feed lots for better finish.

Stockers and Feeders

Heavy shipments regularly each week are offered on this market and fairly heavy shipments going through direct to country points in Ontario. Good quality feeding steers weighing from 800 to 900 pounds selling from $5.50 to $6. Good stocker steers $4.75 to $5.25, medium quality $4.25 to $4.50, common $3.75 to $4 and boners out to the plants at $3 to $3.50. Stocker heifers selling from $4.25 down according to quality. Western heavy calves weighing 300 to 400 pounds selling from $4.50 to $6 with a few fats at $6.50 to $7.

Veal Calves

Choice veal calves have been meeting with good demand at from $9 to $9.50 with the odd Koshier calf at $10, good calves $8 to $9, medium $6.50 to $7.50, common $5 to $6 and boners $3.50 to $4.50.

Sheep and Lambs

Choice lambs have been selling around $8, but at time of writing today, buyers are bidding $7.75 with the usual discount on bucks and culls. Yearling sheep if fat have been in good demand at from $5.50 to as high as $6.50, light butchers sheep $3.50 to $4.50, heavy sheep $3 to $3.50 and cull sheep $2 to $2.50.

Eggs

Prices have declined $1 per cwt., during the last month and at time of writing we would not be surprised to see even lower levels as the season advances. On Tuesday, Oct. 12, the prevailing prices on this market were on a basis of $9 F.O.B., $9.50 weighed off trucks and $10 weighed off cars.

Eggs

Fresh egg prices moved right along during the month of September, registering an advance of nine to ten cents per dozen for that month. During the early part of October, however, consumer demand began to slow up as a result of the sharply higher prices, causing some slight accumulation of receipts. Prices, however, were not very much affected declining only about one to two cents. At this time of writing, (Oct. 13) there is a firmer undertone developing. In fact, some advance has already materialized, with further advances probable.

Present prices delivered Toronto, cases returned, for ungraded eggs, are as follows:

Poultry

Prices, particularly on chickens, held very firm for the Thanksgiving market, and receipts were pretty well cleared. Compared with last year, prices were about five to six cents per pound higher. The market at the moment, is a little quiet, following the holiday, but prices are holding about unchanged.

The trend of the market from now on will depend on the extent of receipts, and to a large measure on the continuance of exports to the American market.

VICTORIA THE GREAT COMES TO SUTTON

A picture that no one can afford to miss, "Victoria the Great," will be shown shortly at the Simcoe theatre, Sutton. This is one of the outstanding screen hits of the year.

GIRLS WILL GO TO CONVENTION

The Poplar Bank Junior Farmers and Junior Institute met at Sharon hall on Monday evening. Edith Haines, the president, was in charge of the Junior Institute meeting. Mrs. Rose gave a talk on famous women and Erma Lunney read a paper on current events. Lois Goodwin and Ruth Kitching were appointed as delegates to attend the Institute convention in Toronto next week.

Ed. Wrightman, president of the Junior Farmers presided. W. M. Cockburn, the agricultural representative spoke on how to conduct a meeting.

At the joint meeting which followed, Angus West and George Russell of Newmarket gave addresses on their trip to the unveiling of the Vimy Ridge memorial. Mary Rose gave a musical selection and Jeanne and Laurene Keffler played and sang. Ivan Eves read a very interesting club paper, the "Newsy News." Lunch was served.

Just In Case

The young attorney was sent out of town to interview an important client in regard to a case.

Later, the head of his firm received the following telegram: "Have forgotten name of client please wire at once."

This was the reply: Client's name Whitehead. Your name Burkey."
